Environmental Statement

McKillican Companies and its employees are proud to be proactive stewards of the environment by bringing design and technology to the market through our products.

We search out vendors who share our concern for the environment and we align ourselves with fabricators who have a respect for these concerns in their everyday operations.

Internally, McKillican strives for a sustainable environment and are mindful of minimizing our carbon footprint in getting our materials to the marketplace.

McKillican provides our customers and specifiers in the Architectural and Design community with a full palette of information on the potential LEED Contributions, as well as Certification and MSDS for each product we distribute.
